

Immortality of Public Administration – Law Frame, Benefits, Possibilities

Sorin BURLACU, Teaching Assistant

Abstract: Having a driving license wouldn't mean anything if it wouldn't have been invented the automobile. The abilities and the benefits of using a computer will be maximized only within the informational society and the first step toward it is represented by the informatization of the public administration or e-Administration. E-Administration is followed then by e-Government and the desire of the new world, e-Democracy.